

Announcement

AVIA VOLT Suisse AG announces an EV charging solution that meets the diverse needs of both businesses and private drivers. From private to public charging, the app ensures a smooth journey to meet the needs of drivers and fleet managers.

As an innovative full-service provider, AVIA VOLT proudly announces its strategic partnership with Deftpower, a leader in innovative charging Software-as-a-Service solutions. This collaboration aims to redefine the landscape of sustainable e-mobility solutions in Switzerland, offering unprecedented convenience and administrative efficiency to AVIA's customers.

“With Deftpower, we have found the right partner to take our range of e-mobility services to the next level. As a full-service provider, we can now offer customized services that are simple, innovative and attractive. Deftpower is constantly developing its software and takes our wishes into account when improving the functionalities” says Alexander Streitig, CEO at AVIA VOLT Suisse AG

Deftpower's white-label solutions, integrated into the AVIA VOLT ecosystem, streamline the charging process for electric vehicle drivers with access to more than 700,000 charging points across Europe while keeping AVIA in full control over the proposition towards its customers.

As the adoption of electric vehicles increases, AVIA VOLT and Deftpower are committed to leading the way toward a greener, more sustainable future. Together, they will pave the way to a world where electric vehicle charging is not only effortless but also environmentally friendly and cost-effective.
